Boobalicious Ball

The 22nd annual Breast Cancer Care WA fundraiser saw 770 guests gather at Crown Ballroom for a Disco Rodeo-themed spectacular. Co-founder Malcolm Day told the crowd the iconic Perth event had raised more than $2.8 million since its inception, a figure that's expected to surpass $3m following this year's ball.

Boobalicious ball raises funds for breast cancer

The 22nd annual Breast Cancer Care WA fundraiser Boobalicious saw more than 700 guests gather at Crown Ballroom.

Co-founder Malcolm Day told the crowd the event had raised more than $2.8 million since its inception, expected to surpass $3m following this year's ball.

Guests were once again dazzled by a runway show showcasing Simone Perele Lingerie. The finale featured five Breast Cancer Care

WA ambassadors who stepped out of their comfort zone and walked the runway to Perth singer Sophie Foster singing Shania Twain's Man! I Feel Like A Woman!

Jess Price received a standing ovation for her appearance after baring her chest and scars following a double mastectomy.

Highlights of the auction included a corporate box for Rufus Du Sol's RAC Arena show going for $30,000.
