The 23rd annual Boobalicious Ball drew close to 700 guests to Crown Perth on Friday in an action-packed effort to raise funds for Breast Cancer Care WA.

In line with this year's sports theme, Crown's Ballrooms were transformed into Booba Stadium, with team spirit high and cheering encouraged.

Models strutted the catwalk to the sounds of singer Sophie Foster and Proof The Band, while DJ Selina carried entertainment into the early morning.

Sports and TV personality Tim Gossage acted as auctioneer, raising $120,000 through auction items on the night.

OUT & ABOUT

Boobalicious Ball

Now in its 23rd year, the iconic fundraiser welcomed approximately 700 people to Crown Towers to help raise money for Breast Cancer Care WA's vital work. The ballroom was converted to "Booba Stadium" for the sports-themed black-tie gala, with the annual runway show a highlight of the night.

Georg Jensen x Bang & Olufsen

Guests gathered at Songbird rooftop bar at the Ritz-Carlton Perth for a celebration of Danish design presented by the two storied brands. Attendees enjoyed champagne and canapes as they browsed rare jewellery from Georg Jensen's Copenhagen archives, alongside a curated collection of pieces from Bang & Olufsen.
